

I believe that enthusiasm and flexibility are the keys to good teaching. I believe that having extensive knowledge of teaching subjects, differentiated instruction, and an excellent rapport with students make my classroom work successfully. My classroom incorporates differentiated instruction as I encourage my students to select their learning path when completing assignments. I believe that teaching is not only done in the classroom. Being involved in extra-curricular activities, from coaching sports teams to running clubs, is a great way to connect with students. I am constantly finding innovative ways of assessing students and having them assess themselves. I am able to connect with students, making them feel comfortable and wanting to do their best work in the classroom. I am a reflective teacher. I think about the lessons that I teach, and assess what was successful and what needs to be changed according to the needs of my students.
